

When did St Helena start circulating coins?

In February 1976 the first St Helena banknotes were introduced, and in 1984 circulating coins were introduced in the names of St Helena and Ascension Island in denominations of 1p, 2p, 5p, 10p, 50p and £1, each coin depicting flora and fauna that are special to the islands.

What happened to St Helena & Ascension Island's New coins?

St Helena & Ascension Island's new coins go into circulation for the first time. UK coins cease to be Legal Tender in St Helena (though shops continue to accept them, even to this day). It is reported that there is £3,480,256 of local money in circulation, or roughly £480 per capita.

Why did the UK annex St Helena in 1816?

On 14 August 1816, the United Kingdom annexed the islands by sending a garrison to secure possession, and making them a dependency of the Cape Colony in South Africa. This was explained as a measure to prevent the islands' use as a base for any attempt to free Napoleon Bonaparte from his prison on Saint Helena.

Are Falkland Islands coins accepted in St Helena?

Falkland Islands coins are in unofficial circulation on St Helena. They are identical in size to their local equivalents, but bear different designs. They cannot, however, be exchanged at the Bank of St Helena and may not be accepted in all shops. If you come here for more than a day you will want to use our local money.

Why was there no coinage in St Helena?

Coinage circulated on St Helena from the earliest days of settlement but none of it was local, it being a combination of English coins and whatever money was brought ashore from passing ships. For obvious reasons English coinage was hard to come by.

Are there coins minted in Saint Helena?

However, commemorative coins are occasionally minted for the island. Initially, sterling coin circulated on Saint Helena, in units of a pound divided into 20 shillings, each of 12 pence. That was supplemented by occasional local issues of paper currencies.
