Could a US bomber attack Iran's nuclear program?

A study in April examining a possible attack on Iran's nuclear program, published in the Bulletin of Atomic Scientists, concluded that the only way to penetrate the harder targets underground would involve large U.S. bomberscarrying massive American-made GBU-57A/B bombs weighing 13.2 tons.

How long would it take Iran to produce a nuclear weapon?

Iran has scaled back the so-called breakout time needed to produce enough weapons-grade uranium for a nuclear weapon from at least a year to a matter of weeks. Iran would then need to produce a nuclear warhead, and it is not clear how long that would take. Dan De Luce is a reporter for the NBC News Investigative Unit.

Does Iran have a nuclear program?

Iran denies it has ever sought to build nuclear weapons and says its nuclear program is designed for civilian purposes. A 2015 nuclear agreement between Iran and world powers limited Iran's nuclear project in return for an easing of economic sanctions.
